I. Course Description

This course is a historical study of the life and teachings of Jesus of Nazareth within the framework of the religion of Israel in the first century, C.E. We will focus especially on Jesus and his message as he emerges in the narrative accounts of the gospels.

Since Jesus is a pivotal figure in human history, it will not be possible to study everything he is attributed to have said or has been written about him. We will have to be selective in our approach. So, using Gospel Parallels: A Synopsis of the Three Gospels, with special emphasis on the gospel of Mark, we will look at certain major stages and transitions in his life. These can function as essential clues as to who Jesus was and what he was up to in his ministry. Our secondary reading is designed to underscore obtaining a comprehensive knowledge of the overall intent of the ministry of Jesus. As noted above, we will concentrate on the Synoptic Gospels.

II. Goals

- A. The student will acquire familiarity with the basic features of Jesus' life in conjunction with significant persons, events, and themes in the story about him as presented in the Synoptic Gospels.
- B. The student will enhance his/her ability to function effectively as a participant or leader in adult Bible education programs on the study of the Gospels as a result of this course.

III. Objectives

- A. The student will gain a basic understanding of the religion of Israel in the context of the Greco-Roman world and the impact of the coming of Jesus upon it.
- B. The student will be able to identify the particular units (pericopes) and their sequence in the entire Markan account of the life of Jesus as well as attaining an overview of the Sermon on the Mount and the Lukan parables. These units will be underscored with an emphasis on their major points made available electronically.
- C. The student will be introduced to the basic methodologies used by biblical scholars to study the Gospels and reconstruct the life of Jesus.

- D. The student will gain a deeper appreciation of the impact of the life of Jesus, not only in the church, but also in Western Culture.

IV. Texts

- A. A.B. Throckmorton (ed.), Gospel Parallels. Thomas Nelson, 1967. (Required)
- B. Peter Walker, Jesus and His World, InterVarsity Press, 2003. (Required)

V. Library Resources

- A. Austin Graduate School of Theology Library
(8:30-10:00 Mon, Tues, Thurs; 8:30-4:30 Wed, Fri)
- B. APTS Library and the Episcopal Theological Seminary Library (both libraries have special arrangements for Austin Grad students).
- C. Instructor will facilitate student orientation and access to basic software and data based resources in the library.
- D. Mark Goodacre's web page is the basic tool for biblical resources on the Internet and can be found at <http://ntgateway.com/>. Other recommended resources are Oxford Internet Theology Resources at <http://info.ox.ac.uk/ctitext/theology/>, and Early Christian Writings at <http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/>.

VI. Required Work

- A. Weekly attendance at class for lectures and discussion.
- B. Regular reading of assignments as noted in the course syllabus.
- C. One book report on book approved by Instructor (5-7 pages).

VII. Evaluation

- A. Three tests will be given. The tests will be on the content of the biblical text, the secondary reading, and the class notes. The averages of the tests will determine 75% of your grade for the course. The grading scale will be:

90 -100 A
80 - 89 B
70 - 79 C
60 - 69 D
- 59 F

Each test will count 25% of the total grade. All tests should be taken on time. An unexcused makeup will have an automatic deduction of ten points. No extra credit!

B. Paper will count for 25% of the grade.
