I want you to do well in this course, so please let me know if you are having difficulty with the class material.

B.A. EDUCATIONAL GOAL SUPPORTED BY THE COURSE: The student will show mastery of the biblical story and familiarity with various genres of biblical literature (law, wisdom, gospel, epistle, etc.) and basic methods and principles of biblical exegesis.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

1. The student will acquire a basic knowledge of the formation of Greek substantives and verbs and of Greek sentence structure.

2. The student will acquire a Greek vocabulary representative of the Johannine Epistles and the first eighteen verses of the Gospel.

3. The student will become familiar with the aids for exegetical study incorporated in the Nestle-Aland Greek New Testament, including the use of the apparatus for textual criticism, and with the use of the lexicon as an exegetical resource.

4. Through translation of passages in the Epistles and Gospels the student will gain an increased understanding of the witness of these writings to the Christian faith.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS: In the main, two things are required of the student: (1) regular attendance at class sessions, where new material can be assimilated, material previously introduced can be reinforced, questions answered, and mistakes corrected; (2) daily study; a good rule of thumb is to review material presented in class and prepare assignments for a minimum of one hour each day, including weekends.

Quizzes will be administered on a regular basis (usually weekly). Each quiz will focus on material specified in advance but may include material learned for previous quizzes (i.e., quizzes are cumulative). A student who notifies the instructor or the Austin Grad receptionist in advance of an absence from class will have opportunity to make up a quiz given on the date of the absence; a quiz missed due to an unexcused absence cannot be made up. Grading will be based on the quizzes (70%), attendance (10%), homework (10%), and oral translation in class (10%).
The basic text for the first major unit of the course, which will introduce the student to essential matters of Greek word formation (“accidence,” in grammarians’ jargon) and sentence structure (“syntax”) is:

L. William Countryman, Read It in Greek: An Introduction to NT Greek (Eerdmans).

After the initial lessons in Countryman, the student will read passages in:

E. Nestle and K. Aland, Novum Testamentum Graece (28th ed.).

Our principal guide to Greek vocabulary, acquired inductively in the reading passages, will be this reader’s “lexicon” (i.e., dictionary):

For the spring semester, the student will also be required to employ an electronic, morphologically tagged edition of the Nestle-Aland 28th edition (more information about this in due course).

As the course proceeds, the student should become familiar with Countryman’s Table of Contents and the book’s special features: the paradigms of substantive forms (pp. 177–185), verbs (pp. 185–188), and participles (pp. 188–195), principal parts of common irregular verbs (pp. 196–197), and especially the glossary and index (pp. 203–205). This last feature of Countryman’s grammar is useful in locating grammatical explanations needed for the translation of a particular passage—especially on those rare occasions when the instructor does not answer his phone or email as quickly as the student desires. Our initial translation will be from the Johannine Letters, after which we will turn to the first chapter of the Gospel according to John (using Countryman, pp. 174-176); the second semester of the course will then continue reading in select New Testament texts.

LEARNING AIDS: For the initial lessons, a recorded guide to Greek pronunciation as used in this class is available from the Bookstore. A number of handouts will be made available in the course of the class and are also accessible under my name at http://austingrad.edu/resources/faculty; be sure to watch for the coveted “Verbamatic” (and ask about the T-shirt). Online aids to the study of the Greek New Testament can be accessed through the “Greek New Testament Gateway” (http://ntgateway.com/greek/) maintained by Dr. Mark Goodacre of Duke University; in particular, you may find some of William Mounce’s learning aids helpful (https://www.teknia.com/greek), although pronunciation and grammatical explanations may differ from those in class.

TUTORING: AGST employs a Greek tutor for your benefit. The tutor’s contact and schedule information will be provided early in the fall semester. You are strongly encouraged to take advantage of tutoring at the earliest point that you encounter difficulty learning the material or feel you are in over your head.

SCHEDULE: We will learn the elements of Greek grammar according to the schedule below, typically at the rate of one topic per week of class, while we also read through the Johannine epistles according to the schedule in Countryman and then other NT passages as announced. Quizzes, usually every Monday, will be announced at least one week in advance. Homework, usually due on Wednesday, will be available at www.greek.austingrad.edu.
